Dr. Schaffer, researcher in biochemistry

A memorial service for Dr. Norwood K. Schaffer, a retired research biochemist, will be held at noon Friday at the First Unitarian Church, Charles and Franklin streets.

Dr. Schaffer, who lived at 8 Beechdale road, died Thursday after an apparent heart attack at a meeting of a professional group. He was 71.

He retired last year from the Edgewood Arsenal after working there as a civilian employee of the Army for more than 25 years. Dr. Schaffer earlier had taught at Boston University and was a researcher at Philadelphia General Hospital.

The author of many professional papers, he was also a member of several professional groups.

A native of Seattle, he obtained bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Washington, a doctorate of philosophy from the Harvard Medical School and a medical degree from Case Western Reserve University.

A grower of orchids, Dr. Schaffer was active in the Maryland Orchid Society.

He is survived by his wife, the former Martha Denny; a son, Robert D. Schaffer, of New London, N.H.; two daughters, Mrs. Martha S. Kluth, of Centralia, Mo., Mrs. Elizabeth S. Tamblyn, of New London, and two grandchildren.

Richard C. Zantzing, retired real estate man

Newburg, Md. (Special)—Funeral services for Richard C. Zantzing, a retired Washington real estate man, will be held at 11 A.M. tomorrow at the Wayside Episcopal Church here.

Mr. Zantzing, who was 77 and lived at Mount Victoria in Charles county, died Friday at Physicians Memorial Hospital in La Plata.

He had retired nearly 10 years ago as the owner of the O. B. Zantzing Company, the Washington real estate firm founded by his father.

He had also been a director of the Citizens Bank of Maryland and the Maryland Home Title Company.

Born in Baltimore, he was a graduate of the Tome School and Lehigh University. He had lived for many years in Prince medical education at North Charles General Hospital, will be offered at 10 A.M. tomorrow at St. Pius X Church, 6428 York road.

Mrs. Noppenberger, who was 66 and lived at 24 Dunkirk road in Rodgers Forge, died Friday at Mercy Hospital after being ill with cancer for three months.

She had held the post in the educational department at the hospital since 1955, when it was started as the first in a community hospital in the area, according to Dr. William Schuman, director emeritus of the department, who said she was held "in deep affection by all of the members of the medical staff."

She was also praised for her tireless devotion to the institution by the hospital administrator on the 25th anniversary of her employment at the hospital. Mrs. Noppenberger began work at the hospital in 1950 as chief medical records librarian.

Earlier, she worked as a medical records librarian from 1929 until 1937 at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and from 1937 until 1944 at the United States Public Health Service Hospital.

A native of Texas, Md., she was a graduate of St. Joseph's School there, Towson High School and the Baltimore Business College.

She also studied voice at the Peabody Conservatory of Music and, as a young woman, sang in the choir at St. Joseph's Church.

In 1943, she married Edward H. Noppenberger who, for many years before his death in 1970, was associated with the Harry T. Campbell & Sons Company.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Stanley Marshall, of Bel Air; two sons, Paul G. Noppenberger, of Rodgers Forge, and Edward D. Noppenberger, of Parkville, and five grandchildren.

The family suggested that memorial gifts could be made to the building fund of the hospital.

Georges county, representing that county as a Republican member of the House of Delegates in the early 1930's.

Mr. Zantzing served in the Army during World War I and worked for the federal government during World War II.

He was a founder and charter member of both the Marlborough and Wicomico Hunt Clubs and a member of the Chevy Chase Club. Mr. Zantzing was also a member of the Society of the Cincinnati and the Vansville Farmers.

His wife, the former Isabel Green, was killed in an automobile accident in 1967.

He is survived by two sons, William D. and Richard C. Zantzing, Jr., both of Mount Victoria; a daughter, Mrs. E. L. Dunning 3d, of Bel Air, and six grandchildren.

Dr. Louis Vogel, surgeon

Funeral services for Dr. Louis A. Vogel, Jr., who had practiced surgery privately in Baltimore since 1948, will be held at 1 P.M. tomorrow at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Northwood, 4215 Loch Raven boulevard.

Dr. Vogel, who was 65, lived at 600 West Joppa road. He died Friday at the Greater Baltimore Medical Center after a long illness.

He maintained an office at 2601 East Monument street and kept an association with Bon Secours Hospital that had begun when he served his residency and part of his internship there.

A native of Baltimore, he was a graduate of City College and attended the Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland before entering the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia, where he obtained his medical degree.

Dr. Vogel served in the Army Medical Corps during World War I and also did part of his internship at City Hospitals.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gloria E. Pete; a daughter, Margaret A. Vogel, of Towson, and a son, Louis A. Vogel 3d, of Towson.

Mrs. Margaret F. Hayman, 67

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret F. Hayman, who kept the statistics for the Bowling Exchange of Baltimore, will be held at 11 A.M. tomorrow at the Lassahn funeral establishment, 7401 Belair road.

Mrs. Hayman, who was 67, died Thursday after an apparent heart attack at her home at 6760 Mallard road in Chase.

She had done the statistical work for the bowling organization for nearly 20 years, and had been a bowler herself for many years.

The former Margaret F. Emgee was a native of Baltimore. Her husband, John H. Hayman, Sr., is a retired postal clerk.

For many years she had played the piano for gatherings at the Bethesda United Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband, her survivors include a son, John H. Hayman, Jr., of Bel Air; a brother, Charles H. Emgee, of Baltimore; three sisters, Bertie May Emgee, Mrs. Martha J. Leitch and Mrs. Elsie C. Lauthin, all of Baltimore, and two grandchildren.

Don DuMont, evangelist

Chicago (AP)—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Don DuMont, an evangelist who ran for a variety of political offices in hopes of creating "a spiritual awareness among the people."

Mr. DuMont, who was 73, died Wednesday night of cancer at his Chicago home.

Known as Chicago's Good Humor man, Mr. DuMont had been an independent candidate for president, United States senator, governor and mayor of Chicago during his career as a maverick politician.

He worked as a Good Humor man in Lake Forest, although he was a mechanical engineer and had a degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

His brother, the late Allan Balcom DuMont, received more than 30 patents on applications of cathode ray tubes which were used in the development of television.

Survivors include his wife, Helen, three sons, a daughter, a brother and a sister.

Train derailment blocks tracks

DERAILMENT, from A1 where they were put on trains that shuttled back and forth from New York. Southbound travelers forced to leave their trains at Penn Station were then transported to Washington by the hastily assembled bus fleet.

"People have been very nice about it," affirmed the anonymous Amtrak spokesman.

"Why don't we get a refund and fly," said a bitter Anne Fisher, of Lutherville, who had planned to leave with her sister for a two-week vacation in Denver yesterday.

"I'll never travel by train again," her sister, Doris, snapped.

"It's terrible," declared a bewildered Carry Mitchell, 65, of the 4500 block Dunland road. Mrs. Mitchell was to have taken the 6:20 P.M. train to Birmingham, Ala., to visit her family.

"I'm going to learn how to fly if it kills me," she said.

Some passengers said Amtrak had withheld news of the wreck from them so they found themselves in a situation they might have avoided.

"I called Amtrak twice this afternoon and they said nothing about it," reported Margaret Shepherd, 43, of Hopewell, N.J., who boarded her train near Washington.

"When I got to the station, they told me about the derailment. We were put on buses and they said a train would be waiting in Baltimore. Now we find we've got hours to wait. I'm annoyed," she said.

The scene at Penn Station last night was one of disgruntled fatigue. Earlier in the day it was different. "It was wild," said Ed Jeffers who runs the Penn Station newstand, "an absolute madhouse."
